Dear Dairy

I can't forget how a great joy came before me when I saw the first ever snowfall. I with my friends went to Shimla. Luckily when we were strolling leisurely on the mall and viewing the view of the mountains and greenery, the snow began to fall. Soon everything looked covered in a white sheet. We went into a playing mood, made snowballs and threw at one another. The entire scenario was simply lovely. It remains embedded in my consciousness. Whenever I recollect the scene and the time that we spent in that most joyful scene, my heart starts dancing with a great pleasure. I feel like William Wordsworth when he recollected the dancing scene of the daffodils later and derived immense pleasure

Truly the visit is my greatest treasure of joy and bliss

Dear Diary,

Cleanliness is next to godliness. I wonder adults, who spend so much time praying to God, yet religiously throw garbage anywhere and everywhere, know this!

After having borne the filth and stench emanating from piles of refuse thrown everywhere and being alarmed by the break out of epidemics, we, the school-going children, took matters in our hands and started a clean- up operation, today.

We collected money every household, bought shovels, brooms, masks, caps and gloves; and, set out to work. Within a span of three hours, the entries locally were free from filth. After taking a shower, each one of us carried materials for making posters to the kids' club, and by evening, beautiful posters educating and instructing everyone to keep the ambiance clean were up on walls and poles

Hope! Adult will learn from this initiative that had been taken by the children.
